About The Education Trust
The Education Trust promotes high academic achievement for all students at all levels—prekindergarten through college. We work alongside parents, educators, policymakers, and community and business leaders across the country in transforming schools and colleges into institutions that serve all students well. Lessons learned in these efforts, together with unflinching data analyses, shape our state and national policy agendas. Our goal is to close the gaps in opportunity and achievement that consign far too many young people—especially those who are black, Latino, American Indian, or from low-income families—to lives on the margins of the American mainstream.

What We Do
The Education Trust advances its mission along several fronts, from raising its voice in national and state policy debates to helping teachers improve instruction in their classrooms. Regardless of the setting, our work maintains a relentless focus on improving the education of all students, particularly those the system too often has neglected.

THE BUZZ ABOUT BUZZ
Those who question whether all students can soar academically need to hear the story of the aero-dynamicist and the bumble bee. Buzz is a testimony to hope, hard work, and high achievement in America’s high-poverty, high-minority high schools. This dynamic performance chronicles the educational struggles and ultimate triumphs of schools, educators, and students who refuse to settle for anything short of real success.

Straight from the mouths of students, teachers, and school leaders and onto the stage…catch the Buzz.

ABOUT BROOKE HAYCOCK
Playwright-activist Brooke Haycock has been crafting and performing issues-focused theater with The Education Trust for nearly a decade. A former high school dropout from an urban public school system, Brooke now spends most of her time back in schools with students and educators, listening to their experiences of equity in American public education. Inspired by the work of documentarians Studs Terkel and Anna Deavere Smith, Brooke mixes interview with performance to produce incisive chronicles of opportunity, achievement, and equity in American public education.

Playwright’s Note
Brooke offers a very special thanks to the dedicated teachers, school leaders, and students who entrusted her with their amazing stories. May the fire in their bellies set the nation’s heart ablaze.

OTHER DOCUMENTARY DRAMAS FROM THE EDUCATION TRUST
All Education Trust documentary theater productions begin as conversations. Brooke spends hundreds of hours in schools across the country talking individually with students, teachers, administrators, and school counselors about issues of race, class, opportunity, and achievement. She then weaves these voices into often-raw, richly honest dramatizations that help stimulate uncomfortable but necessary discussions in schools and communities.

Catalyst is an unflinching portrayal of the power of teachers to change students’ lives. Following two young men, Carl and Isaiah, Catalyst takes on the tough questions of student engagement, bringing audiences face to face with some of the most devastating—and inspiring—images of student transformation.

Dilated Pupils and the Not-So-Soft Bigotry of a Nation takes audiences on a whirlwind tour through the school doors, past the metal detectors, and straight into the lives of three high school students. Told from the perspectives of students and the adults in their lives, Dilated Pupils dares audiences to confront the stories of young people hobbled by low expectations.

Six Degrees of Preparation offers a powerful and intimate opportunity to examine teacher preparation, support, and retention. Based on more than 300 interviews with teachers, teacher candidates, teacher educators, teacher leaders, and students, Six Degrees exposes damaging beliefs and practices in school districts and schools of education, vividly portraying their impact on new teachers and the students they serve.
